Corandra Graykey	The creator of the Outer Realms. She was born on Earth in 1572 as a nephilim, daughter of an angel and human woman. She lived for 120 years until she changed her identity to the true-life historical figure Bridget Bishop, who was the first woman hanged in the Salem Trials in 1692. But in our fictional universe, Bridget didn't die. She floated out into the stars, where she clung to what we know on Earth is the dwarf planet Ceres. But in this series, she created this planet and named it the Outer Realms. And on completion of it, she changed her own idenity to Corandra Graykey, where she went on to have three children: Holden, Heidy, and Hester. But Locasta Blayton killed Heidy and Hester and put Holden under a love spell. So Corandra closed Locasta's womb in revenge. All the different identities for Corandra in order are: Astra (1572-1660), Bridget (1660-1692), Corandra (0-25), Daria (25-?), Eelah, Fewna (Year 166), Grindal, Hewlett, Izzreth, Jean, Katya, LeFrey (312-320, 2004-2012), Mydera (320-328), Nalini (328), Omega (328-329).
